The Tumble in Wheat.

Year York Time: 12th 1 The visible supply of grain vesterday reached the enornous total of 31,033,000 bushels of wheat and 11,077,000 bushels of corn, against 19,255,000 bushwheat and 9,866,000 bushels of corn at the corresponding period last year, when the supply was nearly double what it was at the corresponding period in 1878. At the same time, the exports have fallen off immensely in comparison with what they were last fall. Last week all theyamounted was 653,000 bushels of wheat and 1,-67,000 bushels of corn from all the Atlantic sea-ports. Merchants say that hardly anybody in town has been receiving any consignments of grain recently, All the storehouses have been filled to overflowing both here and in the West, and a letter dated Springfield, Ohio, which was shown to the Times reporter, says that within twenty-five miles of that place a large quantity of grain has been temporarily stored under improvised sheds, for the reason that no-

Iron seems to be getting up every day, and prices are $1 igher to-day than on Saturday. Buyers are not so very numer ous, and most of the large consumers, have supplied their wants until midsummer, but still the supply is so small that, although the purchasers have a good lot on hand, they are anxious to get more, fearing a still further rise. No. 1 founder sells at $41 to $43 per ton, an advance of 150 per cent. in ten months, and twenty-five in twenty days. The market for steel rails is also up. It is nominally $80, an advance of $10 since the first of the year, but a large order at that price for fall delivery was refused by one of the large mills. The Lochiel rolling mill, at Harrisburg, is changing machinery to start upon steel rails, for which it has a large order in advance of its readiness to begin work: The mill will use nothing but imported steel blooms, of which vast quantities will come in during the present year. The advance in iron rails were sold lasmonth. At no time during the last six months have manufacturers found themselves delivering rails within several dollars of the ruling prices, and they are now refusing orders, unless subject to the price at the time of delivery, every change having been against the manufacturer. Shotgun Business.
